

RevSpring Composer™

Fast, efficient document changes at your fingertips

Changing collection communication documents just got easier. RevSpring Composer empowers you to make changes quickly and efficiently while maintaining the highest level of quality and accuracy, all from the convenience of your computer.

Benefits

Efficient change management

Make simple template changes without IT tickets or vendor wait times.

More targeted communications

Customize documents easily to fit each audience and use case.

Faster adjustments

Change templates in minutes, not hours or days.

Built-in protection

Guard documents from mistakes or unapproved alterations throughout the process.

In-house agility

An in-house change-management solution that rapidly adapts to your needs.

Real-time preview

Preview a PDF of every applied change before it goes to print.

Stay in control with Composer

Version control is critical because changes can introduce errors. Composer gives you precise governance over who can change what, so updates stay fast without sacrificing accuracy.

Role-based security

Grant or restrict user access to sections within a template, and fully lock static areas, like an address block that must stay in a USPS-accepted format.

Rules-based processing

Apply conditional commands so a single template adapts to multiple criteria. For example, a California address automatically inserts the California disclosure.

Features

Rules-based processing

Conditional logic that changes template content dynamically.

Role-based security

Granular control over who can edit which sections.

Original & custom templates

Edit at original or duplicate level to build low-risk variants.

Point-and-click changes

Basic edits (logos, images, disclosures, return addresses) in a click.

Real-time preview

Preview document changes as a PDF without leaving the platform.

Approve in-platform

Review and approve changes from within Composer.

Apply one change across many templates

Change a single return address, logo, or piece of legal text and apply it to multiple templates at once, enabling more targeted communications while still protecting the original templates from errors.

Maintaining version control keeps your communications accurate, compliant, and consistent across every audience.
